I have been a customer of XM radio since it became available and have it in both cars and will soon be installing it in a remote vacation home in WV. Why? Because the quality of the signal, the selection of programming and the road and traffic information is what I want as a consumer - and I'm willing to pay for it! If the traditional broadcast media was able to provide these services and the signal quality then there would not be a market for XM radio. They can't and therefore there is this market.

Please don't regulate this great service out of business just when they are getting the traction needed to be successful. And please don't restrict their ability to provide traffic and weather information for the major metro areas of the country. Having that service on all the time during rush hours has saved me many hours of sitting on a blocked road.

Thank you.
